Promotions

Any position which involves a promotion will call for the normal qualifying procedures, written and/or oral examination. However, if it is found that a worker meets all the qualifications for a higher paying position and an eligibility list is already in existence, the worker shall be allowed to take a written and/or oral examination, and, if the worker qualifies, the worker's name will be placed on the eligibility list commensurate with his/her score. Any work experience gained while working in current position or working out of class will qualify for work experience for promotional purposes. If promotion is denied to an internal candidate the employee can ask for a written response on denial.
